

Writing Progression Guidance for Subject Leaders and Teachers

This Writing progression covers all aspects of writing from the non-statutory Development Matters (EYFS) to the National Curriculum (Y1 – Y6) and has been cross referenced with the Teacher Assessment Framework for Year 6. It has been rooted in the simple view of writing:

- Composition: planning, drafting, writing, editing, word choice, oral rehearsal
- Transcription: spelling, handwriting, grammar, sentence construction, punctuation

Spelling

Spelling in this progression has been summarised. Schools should use the progression in their chosen SSP and spelling scheme to secure year group expectations.

EYFS

The skills within EYFS have been taken from Development Matters. Development Matters is non-statutory. The skills used in this progression will allow teachers to see the link between EY provision for Communication, Language and Literacy and the curriculum for writing in KS1 and KS2. Teachers can target these skills so that children can begin to acquire some of the 'foundational' knowledge and skills required for writing. Teachers can deliver these skills through phonics, dictation and the CLL provision. The progression for writing is rooted in communication and reading. Many of the skills for writing will grow from EYFS speaking, listening and reading skills.

Progression

This progression can be used to help teachers build on prior knowledge, pitch appropriately for their year group, target the teaching of specific skills, track progress through assessment for learning and understand gaps.

Writing skills are not exclusive to a particular year group. Whilst the progression may describe a skill that should be taught in a year group., it is likely that that a skill will need to be developed in subsequent year groups e.g. capital letters are taught in Year 1 but will need reviewing in Year 6.

Writing is multi-disciplinary: in order for a child to write they need to read and speak. A school's reading progression and any oracy progression should be used in conjunction with this progression when planning writing.

This progression should be used to develop the school's overall offer for Writing:

- year group map of skills
- grammar skills mapped across a year for each year group
- a high-quality text map
- a text type progression
